

Doylestown Family Medicine Cancellation Policy

Visits with doctor at Doylestown Family Medicine are by appointment only.

Doylestown Family Medicine will call patients two days before (or if a Monday appointment, the preceding Friday or Saturday) to remind them of their appointment.

If a patient is unable to keep their appointment, they are expected to notify the office by calling or emailing with at least 24 hours notice.

If a patient does not show up for their scheduled appointment without notifying the receptionist, or if they cancel their appointment within 6 hours of the appointment, there will be a charge. The charge for a standard fifteen-minute appointment is $30. This charge is direct to the patient, and is not billed to their insurance company. The charge for an extended, 30-minute appointment, is $65. If the appointment is 45 minutes or longer, the charge is $100. If the appointment is a blood test, the charge is $15.

If a patient fails to show for an appointment because of a true family or medical emergency, the charge will be modified or waived at the discretion of Doylestown Family Medicine. Doylestown Family Medicine reserves the right to modify or waive a fee for “no-show” appointments at their own discretion.
